THE SPIDER'S WEB

SEND YOUR LETTERS TO:

THE MARVEL COMICS GROUP, SECOND FLOOR 625 MADISON AV., NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022

Dear Dynamic Duo (Stan and John natch),
The cover of SPIDER-MAN #65 was so breathtaking, so beautiful, so etc. (you've heard it before), that I was compelled to write, for the first time, to your merry little Bullpen (otherwise known as Forbush Land). As I was skipping merrily through the letters as the aforementioned mag, I came across something that stopped me cold. What was it, you ask? Why it was the most preposterous suggestion ever submitted (Would you believe, a crummy idea?). I am referring to a Mr. Fred Brown's letter. In it he suggested giving Spider-Man a partner; namely Spider-Boy (sheesh). I think that if you look it up in your carefully hidden, all-knowing Forbush Files, you'll find that this guy is a Brand Echh reject or worse (if that's possible). The reason that I accuse him thusly is because this is a very typical action of Brand Echh. Example: Ignats Ignats, Boy, Ignats dog, monkey, baboon, turtle, etc., etc. I think that you gathered from this that I don't approve of his suggestion. Another thing. Larry Lieber is great as an illustrator of westerns, in fact your best. However, as an illustrator of Spider-Man he's a (excuse the term) washout. I strongly demand that Jazzy Johnny do the penciling chores for the next SPIDER-MAN SPECIAL (pretty please). Oh, and by the way, your SPIDEY SPECTACULAR didn't coincide very well with the twelve-center, as sometimes some of your other mags don't. Oh, well, I leave you now with these last words spoken from that irate Irving Forbush ... Excelsior! Or is that Alka-Seltzer?

Terry Peckham, 5 Eagle Rock Road
Colorado Springs, Colorado 80907

Dear Stan and John,

You guys are unbelievably great! You aren't condemning young people for searching for a new and better way of life. Nearly all the adults I know do! Now, to the main purpose of this letter: I just couldn't resist commenting on the letters in SPIDER-MAN #64. Letter No. 1. - I know a lot of people who have problems like that (myself included)! Letter No. 3. - I don't know if Les Harris was kidding about his Spider-Man or not, but similar situations can and do happen! Letter No. 6 - I agree with the new Spidey, but would change him even more! Letter No. 7 - Well, I guess it's my turn to get up on the ol' soapbox! Miss Glover has no right to talk about it being improbable that Peter loves Gwen. She has no way of knowing his exact beliefs concerning life, or whether or not Gwen also has the majority of these beliefs. Pete is a highly intelligent individual who has probably meditated many long hours on life's purpose!

Todd Clark, R.D. #5
Waynesburg, Pennsylvania 15370

Dear Stan and John,

It is my sad duty to have to call your attention to the inconsistent shadows in SPIDER-MAN #65. Page 5, upper right shows a window next to Spidey's bed with two horizontal crossbars. The same frame shows the shadow of this window also with two crossbars. On page 6, lower left, the vertical bars cast a shadow in one direction but the leg of the convict who is standing next to the bars casts a shadow in a different direction. This also happens at the top of page 20. There the guard's shadows are in one direction but Captain Stacy's shadow is in a different direction. Most curious of all is the top of page 9. Spider-Man and the convicts in front of him have shadows, but the convict directly behind him does not, although the light source is evidently from the left of the panel and should have caused a shadow. It seems that either the prison or your art department should be equipped with better grade light bulbs.

Noam Albright, 2409 McKinley Ave.
Berkeley, Calif 94703

Dear Stan and John,

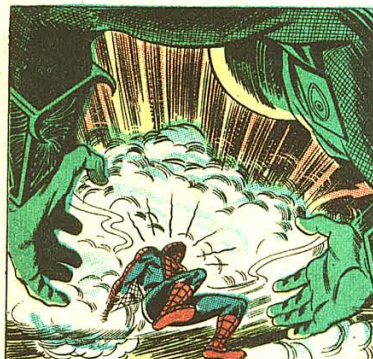

In "The Spider's Web" of SPIDER-MAN #64 Vernon West asks the following question: "Why does Jameson hate Spidey so much? He saved Jameson's son two times!" I ask Vernon to turn to page 22 of SPIDER-MAN #10, and here he will find the answer to his question. J.J. Jameson says, "Am I always to be thwarted and embarrassed by Spider-Man?? I hate that costumed freak more than I've ever hated anyone before! I'll never be contented while he's free! All my life I've been interested in only one thing—making money. And yet Spider-Man risks his life day after day with no thought of reward! If a man like him is good—is a hero—then what am I? I can never respect myself while he lives. Spider-Man represents everything that I'm not! He's brave, powerful and unselfish. The truth is, I envy him! I, J. Jonah Jameson—millionaire, man of the world, civic leader—I'd give anything I own to be the man that he is! But I can never climb to his level. So all that remains for me is—to try to tear him down—because, heaven help me—I'm jealous of him." "Nuff said!!

Joseph Welfer, R.F.O., TTB, KOF, Liverpool, Queens Co
Nova Scotia, Canada

Dear Stan and John,

This letter could probably be addressed to any one of your fine comics, but for lack of any other mag popping into my brain, I decided to forward this to SPIDER-MAN. On quite a few of your covers, most recently SPIDEY #56 (since I'm sending this to that mag, I might as well mention it), you have had "fake" newspapers depicted in the background, bearing a story on whatever hero appears inside. I realize this is usually done to bring about a dramatic or realistic effect, but imagine if superheroes truly existed, what priority would the newspapers give their feats? This all may be totally irrelevant, as it will never happen, but just imagine. Usually when you use one of these dummy newspapers, the heroes get the banner headline, but what of pressing matters such as politics, and Vietnam, and the race problem? Would they be "fillers"? But, come to think of it, since the hero usually does battle with humanity hanging on its fate, wouldn't this be just as important as politics, and Vietnam, and the race problem? I'MMMMMMM!!! Also, since a great number of heroes, including Spidey, the FF and Captain America (not to mention Forbush Man), daily plod the world from the jaws of death, wouldn't it get a little crowded on the front page if they tried to squeeze in these heroes' battles in addition to the politics, and Vietnam, and the race problem? My only solution is to use very tiny type, use shorter sentences, have six front pages, or have a six-foot long, three-foot wide newspaper. But since we will never go blind reading a newspaper, be forced to stomach third-grade sentences, have an eternity spent reading a newspaper, and mainly because superheroes will never appear in newspapers, I don't know why I wrote this fool thing in the first place.

Tom Prehoda, 1068 Lexington Ave.
Schenectady, New York

Dear Stan and John,

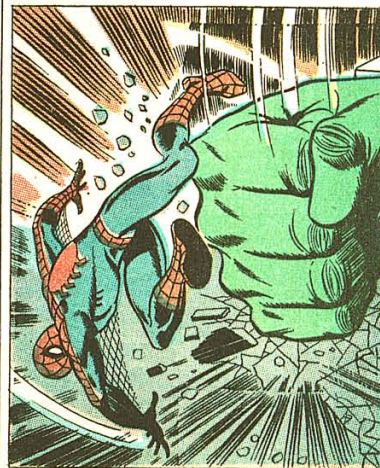

As a great fan of your original artist's earlier triumphs, and one of Jack Kirby's most avid fans, I find it hard to believe what I'm about to say. In SPIDER-MAN #65 Mr. Romita, coupled with the fantastic inks of Jim Mooney (I could have sworn it was Dan Adkins!) surpasses all previous efforts made in the aforementioned mag, and came close to equaling the master strokes of King Kirby himself!! Until this issue, Romita's artwork was missing something... something filled by the astonishing efforts of your new inker: a deeper, darker, more vivid and clear delineation. Beautiful! Gwen looked gorgeous and alive, and Stan, your story was out-astute!! Recently, there's been a tendency to cut down on the amount of word balloons and human interest in your mags—Well, don't! Keep it just on the level of this month's SPIDEY and F.F. novels. Oh, and I'm glad to see the master, Mr. Lee, back on the Hulk... Keep things as they are, you're going great!

Nils Osmer, Box 38
Clam Gulch, Alaska 99568

Dear Stan and John,

I just got SPIDER-MAN #64 and it was a Marvel masterpiece. Every page was a work of art. Let's start with the cover. Superb! The action, the art, the way you centered the attention on the two brightly garbed fighters, but still put every bit as much detail in the background. Then the story, oh the beautiful story. I know you constantly remind us that your heroes are only fictional, but the human emotion put in every story gives us all the idea that these things are really happening as we read them. For instance, on page 17, panel 8, we all feel panic for Spidey as he falls. Oi! JJJ's hatred for Spidey is beautiful. I mean it. Don't get rid of Jonah. (By the way, what does the first J in JJJ stand for?) I really dig M.J.'s new hair style. Who does she think she is? Judy Carney? (You know her. Sock it to me!) I'm overjoyed Gwendolyn found out what really happened with Peter and her father. In closing I would like to say, keep up the good work and keep socking it to us.

RFO Ralph Sterling, 2016 Capouse Ave.
Scranton, Pa. 18509

Dear Stan, and John,

I have a wild idea inspired by a letter I read in SPIDER-MAN #65. The letter said that Pete would probably stay 19 years old for 20 years. That's possible, but Marvel always had the most possible stories around in comics (among other great things). And to have Spidey stay the same age for 20 years would destroy that trademark. I've been doing some research on spiders recently, and I discovered that spiders can live for 2 or more years. I also discovered that a big spider is about the size of a human hand. I could fit approximately 95 of my hands into the area of my body. Therefore, if a spider was enlarged 95 times, it might not only have great strength, stamina, balance, etc., but it might live to be 190 years old. So I was thinking. What if Peter Parker was born on July 30, 1948 and was bitten by a radioactive spider in 1964? This might give him a life expectancy of the above-mentioned spider (assuming that the spider's lifespan increased with its size). Then Spidey would celebrate his birthday every 4 years, meaning that Marvel could keep webhead around for the next 190 years and he would only have had 47% birthdays! Till Spidey loses all his problems, Make Mine Marvel!

Norman Rockwell—America's most beloved artist. He is a founder and member of the Guiding Faculty of the Famous Artists School.

'We're looking for people who like to draw'

says Norman Rockwell

Today hundreds of men and women who never thought they could be artists are working at easels and drawing boards, making pictures and getting well paid for it. They all can thank a group of famous artists who have devoted much of their time and talent to helping others find success in art.

Some of the people the Famous Artists have helped

Carl Kock was an 18-year-old apprentice in a Chicago art studio when he enrolled. Today he prepares ads for such companies as General Motors and Firestone—has won five gold medals.

Howard Sanden of Minneapolis took the Course while still in high school. He is now a successful artist—recently he and his wife traveled through Europe and the Middle East on important art assignments.

Paul Sullivan enrolled at 14. His Famous Artists training helped him work his way through college.

Kathleen Girona of Indiana, Pennsylvania, was an 18-year-old salesgirl in a department store. She still works for a department store, but now it's as an advertising artist and fashion illustrator.

With Famous Artists training James Ryan, formerly a clerk, has become an illustrator at Hughes Aircraft—and turns out a steady stream of well-paying free-lance artwork in his spare time.

Oregon housewife Helen Tryk lives 150 miles from the nearest big city. But she does fashion illustration, has her own studio, runs an art work shop, does portraits.

A plan to help others

It started over 18 years ago when a group of America's most successful artists—men like Albert Dorne, Norman Rockwell, Jon Whitcomb, Al Parker and Stevan Dohanos—met in New York City. They knew that all over America there were people who liked to draw who could be turned into good artists. Albert Dorne asked, "Why can't we give these people the training they need—including all the trade secrets and know-how we've learned over the years?"

He suggested a new kind of art school—a home study art school—that would give talented people the best professional art training, no matter where they live.

The famous artists agreed. Taking time from their busy careers, they created a remarkable series of art lessons covering every aspect of drawing and painting. They illustrated their lessons with over 5,000 "here's-how" illustrations. The lessons start from scratch and cover every skill a top artist needs. Finally, they developed a wonderful way to give each student personal correction and advice all through his training.

The famous artists with the School are not surprised at the success of their students. The opportunities open to successful artists today are enormous. The School continually gets calls from all over the country asking for practical well-trained students—not geniuses—who can step into full-time or part-time art jobs. And practical, thorough training is what the School offers.

Famous Artists Talent Test

To find others with art talent worth developing, the Famous Artists created a 12-page Talent Test. Thousands paid to take this test, but now the School offers and grades it free. Men and women who do well on the test—or offer other sufficient evidence of art talent—may enroll in the School. But there's no obligation. Simply mail the coupon below.
